To whom it may concern

I am writing to express my strong support to the government's proposed legislation to criminalise the distribution of intimate images without consent. I applaud the government for taking this step.

I am strongly supportive of the scope of images to be classified as intimate images to include photo shopped images and for the nature of the impact to include mental harm. An educational package to distribute to schools for early high school would be a great addition to the legislation.

I believe that this legislation should be enacted as a matter of urgency.

Kind regards
